ALLEGED BANK BANDITS CAPTURED

CORNERED BY POSSE FOLLOWING HOLDUP BUT THIRD ESCAPES

Obtain $3,000 From Employee; Ohio Trio Still At Large

INDIANAPOLIS, April 30.—Two well dressed bandits who refused to give their names were lodged in the county jail here today after being captured by nearly a hundred armed citizens as they fled from the Oakland State Bank, of Oakland, twelve miles northeast of here.

Sheriff's deputies were searching for a third bandit believed to have escaped in an automobile and left his companions to attempt a get-away on foot.

The two captured bandits entered the bank through a window last night and concealed themselves behind a counter. When assistant cashier Edgar Mock entered the bank at 7:30 a. m. the intruders menaced him with revolvers and forced him to open the vault.

After scooping about $3,000 into a sack, the bandits forced Mock into the vault, closed the door and twisted the dial. Mock immediately pressed a switch which operated a siren on the front of the bank building and a citizens posse was hastily formed.

COLUMBUS, O., April 30.—Search for the trio of bandits who robbed the Morrisstown State Bank of $4,500 late Tuesday was extended toward Central Ohio today when police here were notified that an automobile carrying Illinois license plates and resembling descriptions of the one in which the holdup men escaped, was seen heading toward Columbus.

Reports that the suspicious-looking automobile was sighted speeding toward this city were telephoned to police headquarters here by the manager of the Newark Telephone Company, who said he had been asked to call by the sheriff of Morgan County.

QUAKE-TOLL IN RUSSIA IS 500

Learn 1,000 Injured, 20,000 Homeless

MOSCOW, April 30.—Toll of dead in the earthquake which rocked a large area of southern Russia and surrounding territories rose today to 500, with indications this number would become even greater when complete reports from the affected district are received.

A total of 1,000 were known to have been injured and at least 20,000 persons rendered homeless.

Latest reports indicated the quake was most severely felt in the Sistan district of Armenia, where 150 persons were killed and 500 injured.

Within a few hours after news of the disaster was received in Moscow, relief measures were under way. Medicinal and food supplies were rushed to the area from Tiflis, Baku and Erivan.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEE ROAD BILL SIGNED

COLUMBUS, O., April 30.—The long fight by township trustees to obtain increased funds for road appropriations had reached a satisfactory conclusion today in the signing by Gov. George White of the Secret-Bestwick bill reallocating state gasoline tax funds.

Governor White signed the bill soon after his return from a trip to Washington, and, with other bills signed and vetoed during the day, brought his total acted upon to eighty-four, a dozen of which he has rejected.

The Secret-Bestwick bill was the township trustee plan for changing distribution of gasoline tax by allowing substantial increases for townships. The increases proposed were slightly reduced before the bill was passed in the senate.

COBB DIVORCE SUIT IS NOW WITHDRAWN

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 30.—Whether Ty Cobb has effected a complete reconciliation with his wife or agreed to a separation without court procedure remained a mystery here today after the withdrawal of Mrs. Cobb's suit for divorce was announced.

Both Cobb and Mrs. Cobb declined to discuss details of the abandonment of the suit, announced by Cobb late yesterday and their attorneys also were silent. Suit for divorce, charging cruelty was filed by Mrs. Cobb on April 15.

YOUNG HERO GETS THRILLS

Bryan Untied Being Showered With Attention As White House Guest

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Bryan Untied, the 13-year-old farm lad whose heroism in the Colorado bus tragedy last month attracted nationwide attention, is going to have a lot of things to tell the kids back in Towner School when he gets back.

Bryan awoke this morning an honored guest in a great blue bed.

room in the White House, and ahead of him stretched another sunny day as packed with thrills as his first one.

In his first twenty-four hours as the guest of President Hoover, Bryan could contemplate these things:

He was met at the station by a

White House limousine longer and more shiny than any automobile he ever saw.

He was welcomed at the White House by the President of the United States and the first lady.

He saw for the first time in his life "a real king" and was a witness at an historic meeting between the King and the President.

He climbed to the top of Washington monument.

He saw a battleship.

He was given a thrilling ride about the historic spots of Washington with the wife of the President acting as his chauffeur and guide. Mrs. Hoover drove her own car to show her youthful guest "the sights."

He had luncheon with the President and Mrs. Hoover and finally he had two friendly, intimate chats with the President.

He slept in the bed that Lindbergh slept in.

All this in one day, with more to follow.

Near the close of an eventful day, President Hoover said to him: "Well, Bryan, what do you think of Washington?"

"I'm thrilled," said Bryan. And then he added, as an afterthought: "You see it's the first time I've ever seen Washington."

And President Hoover, somewhat thoughtfully replied:

"Yes, Bryan, I got the most kick out of Washington myself the first time I ever saw it."

Bryan's early rising habit stood him in good stead this morning, for he was out early to see his host toss the medicine ball with members of his cabinet and a few intimates on the south grounds long before breakfast. The ball was pretty heavy for one of 13 years, and the lad watched the play from the sidelines.

Afterward, he had breakfast with the President in the familiar ham and eggs.

The principal diversion for Bryan today was a trip to Mount Vernon, pictures of which he has seen in his school books.

BORAH ATTACKS FISCAL RECORD OF HOOVER'S ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The coolness existing between President Hoover and Senator Wm. E. Borah, who was his staunchest campaign supporter, was re-emphasized in pointed fashion today when the Idahoan made public a thinly-veiled and highly caustic attack on the administration's fiscal record.

Borah's statement constituted a reply to Mr. Hoover's recent assertion that the administration will see to it that next year's appropriations are slashed some $300,000,000 if congress will only refrain from going on a spending spree.

The fiscal troubles in which the administration finds itself—with a deficit of approximately $800,000,000 in the treasury this year—is not the fault of congress, Borah asserted, but of the executive department.

Within a few hours after news of the disaster was received in Moscow, relief measures were under way. Medicinal and food supplies were rushed to the area from Tiflis, Baku and Erivan.

The Secret-Bestwick bill was the township trustee plan for changing distribution of gasoline tax by allowing substantial increases for townships. The increases proposed were slightly reduced before the bill was passed in the senate.

COLUMBUS, O., April 30.—Governor George White's welfare bond issue plan today was seen as a solution to the search by a senate investigating committee for funds with which to complete construction of the state office building.

A request by the governor and Welfare Director John McSweeney for $5,000,000 for modernizing and fireproofing state institutions is to be submitted to the state legislature when it returns here May 11 and that plan probably will provide for enough money to complete work on state offices.

Governor White's request for $5,000,000 through a bond issue, a reduction of four-fifths in the amount he told the legislature he believed necessary when he delivered his first legislative message, will be submitted officially through a bill to be presented by the assembly's special taxation committee.

Welfare Director McSweeney and the governor have agreed, it was stated, that $5,000,000 probably would prove sufficient to meet immediate demands for improving and enlarging state hospitals, prisons and reformatories.

Any such expenditure would have to be approved by the state electorate, and the governor and his official family hope to win the assembly's consent to have the question of a bond issue put before the people at the November election, it was reported.

partments of the government. In the last congress, he pointed out, congress trimmed appropriations $25,000,000 under what Mr. Hoover recommended in the budget.

After pointing out that appropriations have mounted from slightly more than a billion dollars in 1914 to nearly five billion dollars for the current fiscal year, Borah declared that the blame lay not so much with congress as with the "bureaucracy being built-up" by the executive departments.

A pointed thrust at President Hoover's penchant for appointing commissions was contained in the Idaho senator's statement.

"In the last two years (since the advent of the Hoover administration) we have created twenty-six government commissions with their thousands of employees," he said. "Congress must bear its portion of the responsibility for these commissions. But only one, or possibly two originated with congress."

There are now over 3,000,000 persons in this country on the public payroll, Borah pointed out, which means that every ten persons gainfully employed contribute to the support of one person on the public payroll.

Borah took another indirect thrust at Mr. Hoover by pointing, by referring to President Coolidge as one "who really made a sincere effort to cut down expenditures." He paid no similar compliment to the present administration.

Lovers United In Death After Drinking Poison To End Marital Triangle

WHAT A PUZZLE!

CLEVELAND HOSPITAL AUTHORITIES

are puzzled by the case of Ralph H. Thurber, above, a shell-shocked war victim, who told doctors he was the Reverend Thurber, a Korean missionary, suffering from discomfists, a rare Oriental disease.

They sent a telegram to Columbus in an attempt to locate the bride.

Mrs. Garrison appeared at the hotel last night with her husband and Mrs. Jones. As they entered the room of Hartung, who was a dealer in women's clothes, Garrison with a smile announced:

"My wife and I have patched up our troubles and she is going back home with us."

Hartung apparently was not surprised at the announcement. He smiled and nodded his head in agreement with the decision of his sweetheart.

Mrs. Garrison began to pack her bags, assisted by her husband.

Hartung walked over to a serving table, poured out two drinks of liquor and returned to where Mrs. Garrison was packing her grips. He said:

"Let us have one more drink before we part."

Unsuspecting what the glasses contained, Mrs. Garrison smiled and accepted one of them.

Both raised the glasses to their lips. Hartung gave an inarticulate salutation and they drank together.

Mrs. Garrison screamed as the deadly liquor poured down her throat. She cried as she collapsed:

"It's poison."

Hartung, clutching his throat as he toppled to the floor, looked at his sweetheart lying on the floor near him, said:

"Yes, it is poison and we are dying."

Both were dead when a doctor summoned by the distracted husband arrived.

After the bodies had been removed to a mortuary, Detective David Schwartz found a dozen love letters, some in the purse of Mrs. Garrison and others in the clothing of Hartung, and some were scattered in a dresser drawer.

One of the letters said in part: "So here I am planning with the last drink of our gin to take the easiest way out."

One letter showed that Garrison had planned to end his life rather than be separated from his sweetheart. It said:

"With our last drink of gin, sweetheart, I take the easiest way out. I will love you till death do us part. I can't bear to lose you again."

The most wonderful, sweetest love of my life. You seem like part of me. I would rather be dead than to be away from you. I hope you will think of me—and in my last breath, I will think of you."

Husband Regains Wife Only To Lose Her In Death Coup

CHICAGO, April 30.—Remnants of a death cocktail, a dozen love letters professing undying affection, and a distraught and heart broken husband, were all that remained today in the romance of J. T. Hartung of Columbus, O., and his married sweetheart, Mrs. Kathleen Garrison of Kalamazoo, Mich.

The inconsolable husband is Ralph Garrison, a magazine circulator in Kalamazoo, who had become reconciled to his erring wife last night only to have her snatched from him several minutes later by death.

Hartung brought to a tragic end the clandestine love affair with a death cocktail of poisoned liquor which he and Mrs. Garrison drank in the presence of the woman's husband and Mrs. B. M. Jones, a friend of the family, in the Bismarck Hotel where the couple had lived together since Monday.

A report was received by police that Hartung was a recent bridegroom, having been married April 2. They sent a telegram to Columbus in an attempt to locate the bride.

Mrs. Garrison appeared at the hotel last night with her husband and Mrs. Jones. As they entered the room of Hartung, who was a dealer in women's clothes, Garrison with a smile announced:

WILL BACK SANDINO AGAINST "FOREIGN RULE" FISH CLAIMS

Plan To Demonstrate Against American Aid In Nicaragua

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A nation-wide appeal for support of the Sandino forces in Nicaragua "against foreign oppressors and the rule of Yankee marines" will be fostered by communists in May-Day demonstrations tomorrow, according to information published today by Rep. Hamilton Fish (R) of New York.

Circulars said to have been distributed by the All-America Anti-Imperialist League of New York, which Fish charges is a Communist controlled organization supporting Nicaraguan bandits, were made public at his office.

Other announcements of Communist preparation for May-Day demonstrations received by Fish, as chairman of the house committee which investigated Communist propaganda, include demonstrations in the principal cities for a six-hour day, higher wages and unemployment insurance.

The Anti-Imperialist League, Fish has declared, has solicited funds to be used by the Sandino forces under the plea that they are for "medical supplies."

The new policy of Secretary of State Stimson is ridiculed in the May-Day circular as a sham, the circular saying it is accompanied by rushing of battleships to Puerto Cabezas and Bluefields in an attempt to crush the revolutionary movement of the Nicaraguan people.

Declared that "support must go to the Puerto Cabezas who are and will be real allies of the Nicaraguan peasants" the circular adds:

"The Anti-Imperialist League of the United States calls upon all its affiliated organizations to support actively the present struggle in Nicaragua in the form of mass protest meetings against American Marines' intervention. In every city in the United States we must organize united front committees which are to initiate a campaign of material support for the Anti-Imperialist forces in Nicaragua."

MOSCOW, April 30.—A fiery appeal to the workers of the world to unite in a gigantic attack against the "bloody capitalist, imperialist oppression" with "bread, freedom and power" as the stake was issued by the Communist International today as the prelude to tomorrow's May Day celebrations.

The appeal was directed particularly to the proletariat of Germany, Spain, China and India.

All principal streets and squares in Moscow and other cities will be decorated with red banners and posters dealing with the "war danger" and appeals to "proletarian patriotism." Tomorrow will be a double holiday for the Soviets, and everyone will be expected to participate in the demonstrations.

SUGGESTS SENATE SIT AS COMMITTEE OF WHOLE ON TAXES

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 30.—Every Ohio senator will sit as a committee of the whole when Ohio's proposed taxation revision program comes up for hearing if the senators accept the recommendation that Republican Floor Leader Earl R. Lewis will present May 11 when the "five-minute" recess that began, officially, April 10, expires.

By this plan Lewis hopes to have every member of the upper house hear every phase of the taxation program discussion—a thing that virtually would be impossible if the hearings were confined to the taxation committee, he recently said at his home here.

The taxation committee of the two houses are at work now trying to devise a plan to fit in with the wishes of the voters as expressed in a recent referendum on taxation and when the senate and the house resume after the record five-minute suspension, the bill will go through the usual procedure of being read three times, another recess being taken while the measure is being signed by the committee and returned to the house, Lewis said.

Then Lewis proposes to ask the senators to go into a committee of the whole, thereby giving every organization or interest desiring to be heard opportunity to present its arguments to the entire membership rather than to a whole group in a committee room where only a small audience can be accommodated.

The senate leader believes this method will insure a more satisfactory outcome than if each individual not on the taxation committee has to be "sold" on the various proposals presented by the committee as a result of current sessions.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Whoso diggett a pit shall fall therein; and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him. A lying tongue hateth those that are afflicted by it; and a flattering mouth worketh ruin.—Proverbs, xxvi, 27, 28.

THOUGHT FOR MOTHER'S DAY

A noted writer once said: "The future of society is in the hands of the mothers. If the world was lost through woman, she alone can save it."

No one claims now that the world was ever lost through woman any more than through man. But it is largely true, that the mothers shape the future of the nation. They mould the thought, more than any other force, of the new generation.

We can well think then on Mother's Day, May 10, of this tremendous power in the hands of the women. It is often said that the younger generation has escaped from control and is behaving in a way that bodes no good. But it is seldom that the mother is the one at fault. Some mothers, however, are so driven and harassed by family cares, that they have little time to give to their children. It is to be regretted that other mothers have to permit their children to wander in the streets and form evil associations, while the former are having to earn money.

Society should shape its plans and systems so that the mothers shall be able to exert the maximum influence over their children. The fathers should not make so many demands on them that they can not perform this function. Where it is necessary for the mothers to assist in family support, their working hours should be such that they will have time to give to their family ties.

The good mother needs not merely love and devotion, but knows it takes a great deal of wisdom to handle children, and exercise influence over them in this independent age. The mothers do well to unite in clubs and societies in which they may study the subject of child training, and learn how they can sway the thought of their children. They are shaping the lives of the people who will rule the country later, and they should have every assistance in that task.

UPS AND DOWNS OF SKIRTS

A favorite old hymn might perhaps be paraphrased to read, "The ladies move in their mysterious way, Their wonders to perform." So it might be said that they unconsciously and serenely create profound changes in the business world, upsetting some trades and elevating others, by the irresistible course of their style changes.

A few years ago they reduced many textile producers to near despair, by cutting a foot or more off the bottoms of their dresses. Many thousands of people were thrown out of work by the reduced consumption of textile fabrics. Now there has been a return of joy to these centers, because the women have put on long or longer dresses again for formal attire, and show some disposition to lengthen them all.

What the next move will be is a subject of anxious discussion among producers of dress fabrics, but this would be as difficult to predict as next year's weather. The changes of women's fashions are among those mysteries that the mind of man has not yet been able to solve. It had been thought that the women so enjoyed the freedom of motion permitted by short skirts, that never again would they don the longer ones. But those who so predicted overlooked some phases of the feminine psychology. The long dresses are declared to be more feminine, and the age of trousers for both sexes is not yet.

Meanwhile the women and girls who drive automobiles are not swaddling their limbs very much with encumbering garments, and the girls who play tennis and golf this summer will probably not tolerate such impediments. So if the textile producers dream of getting the dear girls of Ohio to tie themselves up in long skirts for all purposes, they are probably doomed to disappointment.

The Atchison Globe confesses to a belief that mankind has many admirable traits. Yes, and among others is the ability to understand that it is not wholly admirable.

The person selected by the new Spanish government to be its ambassador to Washington appears to be a man who dislikes everything the United States does. He ought to stand high with the professorial contingent at Columbia and Princeton.

The French police insist that the old saying should be altered to read: Uneasy lie the heads that have to guard an ex-king.

Other Editorial Thoughts

NEW MARRIAGE LICENSE LAW

Governor White has signed the bill which provides that at least five days, but not more than thirty, must elapse between the filing of an application for a marriage license and the issuance of the license.

Social reformers have been working for the enactment of such a law for quite a number of years, holding that it would result in preventing many marriages hastily entered into without due consideration, only to be regretted later.

It was so urged that a law of this kind would serve to stop joy ride marriages in which one or both of the contracting parties might be under the influence of liquor. We are not greatly impressed by this latter contention, however, for the reason that the new law provides that a probate judge may, upon good cause being shown, waive the time requirement. It is hardly conceivable that a judge who would issue a license to a party under the influence of liquor would long hesitate about waiving a five-day time requirement.

However, the new law must be judged by its results. If there is a noticeable decrease in divorce cases in the next five or ten years, the decrease may be credited, in part at least, to the new law. If, however, marital discontent is in no degree lessened and the divorce mills grind along as in the past, it will have to be added to the long list of legal remedies which have failed to accomplish the cures hoped for when they were prescribed.

If the five-day notice is generally enforced, it will have the effect of making marriage more difficult, in the face of the fact that divorce is steadily becoming more and more easy of accomplishment. As a sociological proposition, it may seem to many that a better course would be to make the way to marriage easy and the way to divorce hard.

SUGGESTION

Ghost-writing is coming in for a lot of adverse criticism. In this connection, with the recent Lewis-Dreiser slapping farce in mind, someone suggested the other day that our eminent authors hire "ghost-fighters."

AMERICAN TRAGEDY

Old Dreiser is still bristling. With his right hand tingling from the impact with Lewis's phiz, he turns to administer a resounding smack on the cheek of the motion picture industry. And the movies take it as Sinclair Lewis did—sitting down.

"The truth is," says a screen writer, "the American cinema has been so browbeaten by editorial writers, authors and other members of our impressive intelligentsia that its humility has become practically pathological."

"Of course it keeps up a pretense of bluster—all pathologically humble objects do. It pretends to be very superior to such people as Mr. Dreiser and to laugh with raucous scorn at the earnest high-brows; but the pretense is so obvious that it is hard to see how it could fool anyone."

FOUNDATION OF KISSES

"In a land torn with serious problems," says Dreiser, "the films are feeding the public hokum—in-sincere, sexy stuff, crazy and expensive. You can't interest America in serious problems. Why? It's the damned movies, like bread and circuses in the old Roman days. Here, they fill them with kissing scenes. It's a low mental condition for a country to be in and a low comment on the United States that an enormous industry should flourish on such a basis."

But why blame the movie magnates for such a state of affairs? They're in business for money. There's many a visionary playing tennis on the front lawn of the poor house this Spring who insisted upon jamming down the throat of the public certain pet highbrow artistic conceptions of their own.

Even Henry Ford hasn't money enough to do that. Pictures, like any other commodity, must make money, or perish; and as for Theodore Dreiser, he has to sell his funny books if he wants to continue to live in the luxurious fashion in which he sprawls today.

He certainly hasn't just learned of the disabilities of the movie industry. He must have known all about conditions when he signed over the picture rights on "An American Tragedy." And if his "art" is so much greater than that of "No. 1," he'll not take my miserable $150,000—or whatever the ridiculous amount was—for my book. Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake!

ABOUT CRITICS

Old Joubert once said: "Professional critics can distinguish and appreciate neither uncut diamonds nor gold in the bar. They are merchants and in literature know only the coins which have currency. Their criticism has balances and scales; but neither crucible nor touchstone." Dreiser ought to carve that on the head of his bed and each night kneel down in his pajamas and thank God for having been born in this generation.

Prison Census

What is the number of inmates of prisons in the United States? Are federal prisoners included?

The 1930 census of prison inmates, exclusive of jails, gives the total as 116,570. Of this number 11,270 are federal prisoners.

Candlemas Day

What is the significance of groundhog day?

The second of February, popularly known in this country as groundhog day, is also celebrated as Candlemas day, on which the Feast of the Purification of the Virgin Mary is observed by the Roman Catholic church.

The observance of this day seems to have prevailed in pre-Christian times. The Romans burned candles on February 2 to the Goddess Februa. The exact date of the origin of the custom is unknown. There are many traditions regarding this day, the most common of which is that a fair day means that winter will be slow in leaving. In Canada a bear is substituted for the groundhog in the belief that if he sees his shadow on this day, there will be six more weeks of winter.

Another Case of Trying to Beat the Engineer to the Crossing

NEED OF EXTRA SESSION DECLARED BY SENATORS STANDING BY IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Senators David I. Walsh and Gerald P. Nye agree that a special session of congress is urgently necessary—to deal with "grave problems" as Senator Walsh put it in a recently issued statement; particularly the agricultural problem and still continuing unemployment, said Senator Nye in his statement.

It was to furnish the best substitute they could for a special session for the senators are practically, if not quite, unanimous in the belief that President Hoover has no intention of calling one. That Senators Norris, Cutting, La Follette, and Coughlin took the lead in arranging the conference which progressives of both political parties held in Washington in mid-March.

There is no prospect whatever, as a matter of fact, that there will be a congressional session until the regular one opens in December, but 20 senators will linger in Washington, for the sake of being here at least personally at a time when they think both houses ought to be officially functioning.

Senator James Couzens of Michigan (who is one of the number remaining in the capital) chuckled as he reflected on the list of his anxious fellow senators.

"The truth is," he said, "that the folk who object so strenuously to an extra session of congress would hardly object at all if it could be limited to the house of representatives."

"Under their rules, the representatives are managed absolutely by a few members who can be implicitly relied on to prevent debate or speech making from straying outside the bounds that regularity wants respected."

"Occasionally, to avoid too dead a level of monotony, one insurgent or another, like Major La Guardia, is allowed to do a bit of sensational-sounding talking, but he never is permitted to get beyond the deadline."

"The senate rules provide no such guaranty. There always is the danger that some independent—notably George Norris—will spill the beans, causing a lot of trouble."

Even so, however—

Why should those who shrink from bean spilling care whether they are spilled a little sooner or a little later? If Senator Norris is denied a chance to spill them at an extra session of congress in the spring, it is reasonable to assume that he will spill them at the regular session in December.

What's gained by seven or eight months' delay?

"A concern," replied Senator Couzens, "which is making big dividends by methods it is afraid will be interfered with, in case they are discussed publicly, prefers to stave off public discussion as long as possible. In the meantime it continues to make big dividends. Seven or eight additional months of them may be mighty well worth having, whatever happens afterward."

"And in my judgment there is hardly anything in it. My personal opinion is that not above 10 per cent of the population knows that congress is in session when it is in session, or that it is not in session when it is not in session."

"But at that," said the Wolverine statesman, "I believe it's a mere groundless superstition that business is adversely affected by the convening of congress, either in regular or special sessions, or that a long lapse between sessions revives it."

"I think it's a superstition started by a small group which undoubtedly does dislike, not so much the house of representatives, but the senate, on account of the truths certain senators tell; and encouraged by a considerable part of the press, which is included in the small group referred to."

"And in my judgment there is hardly anything in it. My personal opinion is that not above 10 per cent of the population knows that congress is in session when it is in session, or that it is not in session when it is not in session."

"But at that," said the Wolver-

This is a very inexpensive menu compiled by the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture. The following recipes will serve five. Better file these recipes.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Vegetable Soup—One large soup bone with meat (cracked), three quarts cold water, four tablespoons fat, one green pepper, chopped; one cup chopped onion, one and one-half cups chopped celery and leaves, one cup finely diced carrots, one cup finely diced turnips, two cups finely diced potatoes, two cups tomato juice and pulp, three teaspoons salt, or to taste, one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Wash the soup bone and be careful to remove all small loose pieces of bone. Put the bone in a large kettle, cover with the cold water, and simmer for two hours. Remove the bone from the broth. Cook all the vegetables, except the potatoes, in the pint of boiling water for 10 minutes. Fry the salt pork and onion for about five minutes, and add these and the corn to the potatoes. Cook until the potatoes are done. Add the milk and the salt and pepper, bring the mixture to the boiling point, and add the parsley or celery leaves. Serve very hot in soup dishes and place two or three crackers in the dish before pouring in the chowder.

Salmon Loaf—Two cups canned salmon, one-half cup fine bread crumbs or crackers, two-thirds cup chopped celery may be omitted and celery seed added, two eggs, one tablespoon lemon juice, one teaspoon salt, pepper if liked. Flake the fish with a silver fork. Add eggs, beaten lightly, the bread crumbs or crackers, salt, pepper, lemon juice and celery. Shape into a loaf and place in an oiled baking pan. Bake in a medium oven until firm and well browned.

Food Needs for Five
A family of five, including father, mother and three children, should buy every week: Bread, 12 to 16 pounds; flour, 1 to 2 pounds; cereal, 4 to 6 pounds; whole fresh milk, 23 to 28 quarts, or its equivalent in canned, unsweetened milk; potatoes, 15 to 20 pounds; dried beans, peas, peanut butter, one to two pounds; tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit, six pounds; other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits, 15 to 18 pounds; fats, such as bacon, butter, lard, margarine, salt pork, etc., two and one-half pounds; sugar and molasses, three pounds; lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs (eight or ten approximately one pound), five to seven pounds; eggs (for children), eight pounds; coffee, one pound; tea, one-fourth pound.

Whistling in the Dark

Well, Why Not?

It Makes a Pleasant Sound

Why not whistle in the dark?

A whistle is not such a bad thing. It chases away the ghosts. It takes your mind from your troubles.

You're in trouble. The black

beasts of tragedy are snapping and #### snarling and you know not which #### way to turn. The ship is drifting

toward the rocks. The fore-closure

is just around the corner. You #### can't pay your life insurance.

There is a nagging pain inside of #### you that you're keeping to your#### self. The fair princess of life has #### been changed into an ugly-clammy

toad. What will you do?

You can whistle in the dark.

You can find a bit of comfort

somewhere, a crumb dropped magi#### cally in your pathway. You can #### say, "I still have my health." You #### can say, "My wife still loves me."

You can say, "Now I'll discover

for myself just how strong I really #### am. I'll see if I can endure as

Job did—and complain a good #### deal less than he."

You can whistle in the dark and #### make a few observations about #### what fine weather we are having,

and how you saw a bird yesterday

building a nest, and it won't be #### long now before a fellow can go #### into the hills and have a good #### time beside a pleasant stream.

Of course if you do whistle in #### the dark someone is sure to come

your way and remind you that

that's just what you are doing—#### tell you there ought to be a #### law against Whistling in the Dark.

And you ought to be ashamed of #### whistling when you should be #### whining.

Take my word for it, that's #### what will happen. But it's better

to be whistling than to be sucking

on a lemon. And a whistle makes #### a cheerful noise in the center of #### the gloom

Not Easy To Ascertain Causes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

People are apt to say off-handedly, "I had ptomaine poison," or "I was poisoned by some food." They seem to think that this is an easy matter to prove. The great difficulties of determining the actual nature of food poisoning is illustrated by the procedures that were necessary in an instance where eleven people were poisoned by eating sponge cake.

The symptoms were the usual ones ordinarily ascribed to food poisoning—nausea, vomiting and marked prostration. Some of the people were affected within a few hours, in others the symptoms did not come on for about a day. There were no deaths.

For some reason a laboratory decided to study this epidemic. The sponge cakes were handed over to them and some of this cake was fed to monkeys, rabbits and mice with no bad effects. Then some human volunteers came forward and when they ate the cake they all had the same symptoms as the original group. So the first conclusion was that the cake did contain some factor certainly harmful to man, but having no effect on lower animals.

Then the cake was examined for bacteria, and the layer portion was found to have three kinds of germs living in it. These were all three made to grow on media, and then grown on real food. After a good growth was obtained the real food was filtered. The laboratory workers then had three kinds of broth and they fed all three to different volunteer experimenters. Broths Nos. 1 and 2 were eaten without harmful effect, but broth No. 3 invariably caused the nausea, diarrhoea and prostration suffered by the original group. This toxic broth was grown from a germ known as the yellow hemolytic streptococcus. It probably hid in the sponge cake as a matter of protective coloration. One of the instructive features of the experiment is the realization that food poisoning can be caused by eating other things than meat. Meat, or especially fish and oysters, are always blamed, but the fact is that nearly any food can harbor toxic products, even cake that has been heated to a high temperature in baking. A nearly constant finding in food poisoning is an actual germ rather than some chemical substance, a theoretical "ptomaine."

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Mrs. R. C. B.: "Will you state why some children grind their teeth together during sleep?"

Answer: It may be due to local conditions in the mouth, or to crooked teeth or some other source of irritation. The habit begins as a reflex nervous reaction. It is often said to be due to irritation of the intestinal tract by worms. It is a very difficult habit to break. Mechanical pacifiers of rubber (but cannot be swallowed, or inspired, or made too big to be swallowed) have helped in some instances.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Girls Can't Keep Boys Interested

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Perplexed writes me that she and her girl friend have nice homes and clothes. Their appearance always is "perfect," they are good dancers and fond of sports; are neither clinging vines nor hard-boiled. Neck a bit, but don't drink or smoke.

Fellows are crazy about them when they first meet them, but never ask for more than one or two dates.

What's the trouble with them, they ask?

The answer is, of course, perplexed, that the boys don't have a good enough time when in your company. Why? That's for you to answer.

Now let me ask a few questions: Are you too expensive for the average boy's pocketbook? Do you expect him to spend and spend and keep on spending all the time you are out with him? Are you always hungry and frank about making the matter known? Boys get tired of everlasting trying to fill up some of these girls who apparently never get enough to eat at home. It's a form of gold digging.

Are you modest and make yourself conspicuous when out in company? Boys are shy creatures and hate to be with a girl who calls attention to them by their loud actions and voices.

Are you silly and simpering when with boys, or are you jolly good fellows, just as when you are with girls? Sometimes when girls are too anxious for dates and hint around the boys shy off.

Are you genuinely interested in the boys as human beings, or merely want to make an impression on them as males? Do you make it evident that you are trying to annex a man for life? That attitude discourages mere man who thinks he wants his freedom.

If you answer all these questions in the affirmative, I can't tell what is wrong without seeing you. Even then, being a mere woman, I might be wrong.

Softball Season Here Is Finally Launched

GRAHAM PAINTS VICTORS OVER CRITERION IN OPENING GAME

Winners Off To Lead In National Loop Race; Pitching Is Fair But Teams Weak Afield; McCurran Hits First Homer

By PHIL FRAME

Opening of the current softball season is now a thing of the past instead of something to look forward to.

Without any of the fanfare that usually accompanies the start of a season of league competition, the 1931 campaign finally got under way Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field with a large number of shivering fans on hand.

The inaugural contest in the National League was an auspicious occasion for the Graham Paints but not quite so auspicious for the Criterion, the former team winning by a score of 9 to 4. Darkness ended the game at the close of the eighth inning.

The feature of the opener was a home run by Mr. Frederick McCurran, center fielder for the Paints, who unburdened himself of the circuit blow in the eighth inning with a teammate on base. It was a prodigious clout which traveled to the farthest reaches of left field and Mr. McCurran circled the bases at a Boy Scout trot.

Aside from this—the longest blow of the melee and the first homer of the season—the hitting was nothing to write home to mother about; that is, unless you happen to owe her a letter. The

CADET RIFLE TEAM DEFEATS DELAWARE GUARD WEDNESDAY

Home Marksmen Win By Score Of 812 To 806

The O. S. and S. O. Home cadet marksmen maintained their undefeated status in smallbore rifle competition this year by again defeating Company K, 166th Infantry, Ohio National Guard unit Delaware, O., 812 to 806 in a return match here Wednesday.

The match was fired in four positions—prone, sitting, kneeling and standing—the rival sharpshooters being allotted five shots from each position.

Lt. Perry D. Swindler, coach and member of the Home team, was high point man of the match with 171 points out of a possible 200, while Sgt. Jack Mangans and Sgt. H. L. Warren each scored 170 points for the Delaware guard unit.

Victorious in its first three matches, the cadet team will meet the team representing Stivers High School of Dayton at the local institution next Wednesday. Here are the scores of Wednesday's match:

Home: Lt. P. D. Swindler 171, Lt. C. Brown 165, Leroy Tyrell 160, Bernard McPinley 160, Alton Snyder 156.

Delaware: Sgt. Jack Mangans 170, Sgt. H. L. Warren 170, Sgt. Q. D. Foster 168, Sgt. H. Raines 156, Major D. R. Smith 142.

WESLEY FERRELL IN BASEBALL'S HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK, April 30.—The bearded old man who does the janitor work in baseball's hall of fame dusted out a new niche today. The old gent has not been very busy of late and he took time to tidy up a neat spot for Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's sterling right hander, who took his place with Carl Hubbell, Ted Lyons, Ray Caldwell and others of sun-fast glory.

Ferrell pitched the first no-hit, no-run game in major league baseball in almost two years yesterday as he calmed the St. Louis Browns 9 to 0. Not satisfied with his hurling feat, he also big-berthed a homer that scored one man ahead of him and drove in two other runs later with a right-field wall double.

His fast ball accounted for the fanning of eight batters. Not a man went past first base and not a ball was driven out of the infield. Ferrell gave three walks and errors put three others on first.

The Cleveland speedster, who won twenty-five games in 1930, losing thirteen, has won four straight this season.

Ferrell's great game was last duplicated by Carl Hubbell's no-hit no-run win over Pittsburgh in May, 1929. Caldwell, also of Cleveland, shut out the New York Yankees in 1919 in a no hit affair and the last no-hit victory in the American League was hurled by Ted Lyons of the White Sox against Boston, August 21, 1926.

ANTIOCH TENNIS TEAM IS WINNER

Continuing its winning ways, the unbeaten Antioch College tennis team blanked Capital University racquet wielders, 7 to 0 in a match staged on Antioch's concrete courts at Yellow Springs Wednesday afternoon.

The triumph was the fourth straight for Antioch's net team, which swept the five singles and two doubles matches with the loss of only two sets.

SPRING VALLEY WINS COUNTY BASEBALL TITLE SECOND YEAR

Spring Valley High baseball team annexed the Greene County High School baseball championship for the second straight year when it defeated the strong Jefferson Twp. High team 4 to 2 on the Cedarville College diamond Wednesday afternoon.

Spring Valley remains undefeated in county competition while the defeat Wednesday was the first for the Bowersville boys.

It was decided Tuesday that the contest should be played for the championship of the county. The Greene County athletic committee decided the contest should be played on a neutral diamond and the Cedarville ground was selected.

By virtue of its victory Spring Valley will represent this county at Dayton May 15. Spring Valley also took part in the district contest last year at Dayton as Greene County representative.

The Valley nine won the game in the first inning when Jasper, highly touted Jefferson Twp. moundsman, could not find the plate, and issued five walks hitting one batter. As a result of his wildness three runs crossed the plate and Spring Valley was out in front with a two run advantage.

Jefferson Twp. had previously scored a run in the half of the first inning. Both teams scored again in the fourth inning. Jefferson obtained a run in its half and Spring Valley a run in the other half of the same inning. Seven innings were played.

"Buck" Compton pitched airtight ball throughout, holding the Jefferson Twp. nine to four scattered hits, and was never in danger. Jasper, batting in clean up position, got the only extra base blow off the delivery of Compton. It was a two-base hit. Compton also obtained fine support from his team mates.

Jasper allowed seven hits to the Valley boys, but pitched superb ball after his wildness in the first inning. He struck out eight Valley batsmen and allowed only two extra base blows, both by Huff, Valley shortstop. Compton struck out five Jefferson batters.

Huff had a perfect day making three hits in the same number of times at bat, a triple, double, and single, and contributing no misplays in the field. Starr, Valley catcher, made two hits in three times at bat. Each team contributed three misplays in the field.

The Spring Valley High nine will meet the Bellbrook nine on the Valley diamond Monday night and will travel to Cedarville Tuesday night to play the Cedarville High diamond squad.

JUVENILE DETENTION WILL BE TRANSFERRED TO COUNTY HOME

Unused rooms on the second floor of the south wing of the Greene County Infirmary are being fitted up for juvenile detention quarters, county commissioners reveal.

Transfer of the juvenile detention department from the county jail to the infirmary was agreed upon at the suggestion of Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Interiors of the rooms in the south wing are being repainted and ten rooms along a corridor will eventually be available for confinement of minors on delinquency charges.

The removal of this department resulted from agitation initiated by Parent-Teacher Associations to have the department segregated from the women's department at the jail.

Grand juries had also frequently recommended that the detention quarters be enlarged and separated from the women's department.

At the suggestion of Sheriff John Baughn, Judge Gowdy has appointed A. E. Kildow, infirmary superintendent as deputy sheriff to give him legal control of juveniles committed to his care.

WHEREAS, the congress by joint resolution has authorized and requested the President of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May 1 is Child Health Day and

Whereas, the responsibility for the well-being of children is a community responsibility as well as an individual duty

Now, therefore, I, Jacob Kany, mayor of the city of Xenia, urge all people of Xenia, particularly those engaged in welfare work, public and private, to join in observing May Day (May 1) as National Child Health Day.

I, therefore, urge the people of Xenia to join in extending their sincere interest and assistance to the Red Cross and Social Service League of the city of Xenia in cooperation so that their child welfare work for the coming year may prove successful.

JACOB KANY,
Mayor of Xenia.

MARRIED HER UNDER ASSUMED NAME SAYS YOUNG WIFE IN SUIT

Declaring that her husband not only married her under an assumed name but that he was lawfully married to another woman at the time, Mary Allen, by her father, George Schooler, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court seeking annulment of her marriage to Sidney Morgan alias William Allen.

The marriage, according to the petition, took place September 17, 1928 when the bride was only 15 years of age.

The young wife asserts that shortly after the wedding she discovered her husband had misrepresented his name to her and that his true name is Sidney Morgan. Not only that but he had a wife living, she complains.

One child, Cyberta Marie, was born of the marriage. The plaintiff asks to be restored to her maiden name and requests that her husband be required to support the child.

CONFIDENCE

Last year, in spite of the general business depression, thousands of dollars were invested by The Dayton Power & Light Company in improvements to bring a better gas and electric service to you.

New construction, extensions and improvements absorbed this money. The light and power companies, instead of aggravating the unemployment situation by adopting a policy of retrenchment, did much to improve the situation by continuing their policy of improvement and expansion.

This steady flow of new work in spite of general business conditions clearly demonstrates the faith of The Dayton Power & Light Company in the people of this community. Without this confidence, this company would be unable to keep pace with the constantly increasing demands being made upon it.

Exactly the opportunity you have been waiting for—
QUALITY combined with LOW PRICE

And when we say QUALITY — we back it up with plain, indisputable Facts!

The important point about the General Electric 3-year guarantee is that, unlike most refrigerators, the General Electric is INCAPABLE OF NEGLECT. Bear in mind that ordinary guarantees never protect you against NEGLECT on your part—such as failure to oil the mechanism—damage as a result of unsuccessful efforts to repair it—etc., etc.

INCAPABLE OF NEGLECT is the General Electric—because, sealed hermetically, it is safe from the tinkerer's touch and requires no attention, not even oiling. Dirt, air and moisture—the enemies of machinery—cannot touch the simple mechanism.

You couldn't NEGLECT a General Electric Refrigerator, even if you wanted to! That is why its 3-year guarantee means MORE! A million users have found it INCAPABLE OF NEGLECT. And that—THE VERDICT OF A MILLION USERS—means more to you as a prospective buyer than a million CLAIMS unsupported by FACTS!

"More food-space—less floor space"—this $185 all-steel model carries General Electric's revolutionary 3-year guarantee on unit, cabinet, everything. ## DAIRY SPECIALIST WILL SPEAK HERE

Ivan McKellip, dairy specialist of Ohio State University, will meet with Greene County dairymen Wednesday evening, May 6, in the assembly room of the Court House when records of the Greene County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will be analyzed and factors making for profit will be discussed.

Records giving the pounds of milk, pounds of fat, value of product, cost of roughage, cost of grain and profit above feed cost have been kept on twenty-six herds with a total of 413 cows. These records show that an average return of $2.09 was received for every dollar expended for feed. Average feed cost per 100 pounds of milk was $1.09 and feed cost per pound of fat was 26c.

The cows were divided into nine groups ranging in production from 150 to 550 lbs. of butter fat. The 150 pound cow gave a net profit of minus $18.04 and the 550 pound cow net the owner $74.00.

Officers of the association are L. H. Hartley, president, J. O. St. John, vice-president, and Nelson Ankeney, secretary-treasurer. All dairymen are invited.

BURKE HOPES WIFE WILL DIVORCE HIM

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 30—Thoughts of Fred "Killer" Burke turned to his young Missouri wife, Bonnie Porter, after he was sentenced to serve a life term in the Marquette Penitentiary at hard labor, according to sheriff Fred J. Cutler here today.

The official, who returned here after escorting "the most dangerous gangster in America" to the prison, quoted Burke as saying: "I hope my wife divorces me and gets out of this whole mess." Burke, the sheriff said, declared that he had given his wife, a former Kansas City nurse, $3,000 when he left her.

According to Sheriff Cutler, Burke still had $500 when he arrived at the prison. Warden J. P. Corgan took the money to keep for the arch-criminal. The warden said that Burke would be put to work sewing overalls or as a box-maker.

FOUR COUNTIES HAVE MOST OF SMALLPOX

COLUMBUS, O., April 29.—Allen, Van Wert, Putnam and Defiance Counties were responsible for 42 per cent of the smallpox cases in Ohio reported from October 1 to March 31, according to figures just made public by Health Director H. G. Southard.

Portage County, which reported twenty-one cases in March and thirty-five during the first twenty days of April, was a new contender during the final days of the six months period.

Totals for the four counties, the report revealed, were Allen 281, Defiance, 150, Putnam, 188, and Van Wert 52.

Concentration of the disease on four or five counties, Dr. Southard pointed out, "illustrates the danger inherent in our weak vaccination laws and the menace carried by the mild type of smallpox of which we have so much."

Inability to enforce vaccination, the director said, "makes it impossible to prevent outbreaks which, no matter how mild the initial cases, gather virulence as they spread and are liable at any moment to sweep large areas with deadly pestilence."

LONG SEARCH FINDS SLAYERS OF OHIOAN AFTER EIGHT YEARS

WELLSVILLE, O., April 28.—It was eight years ago last March 11 when two struggling figures rolled over and over in a dusty street of this little Ohio River valley village.

Out of the semi-darkness, two shots were fired—lead messengers of death to James Hoskins, one of the participants in a street fight. The village blazed indignant.

Investigation led to the arrest of Dank McAdoo, alleged participant, and Farmer Freeman and his son, Theodore. Conflicting testimony of eager witnesses led to the release of the Freemans and McAdoo was charged with the brutal slaying.

Passions cooled—the murder apparently was solved.

But Police Chief John H. Fultz wasn't satisfied. Quietly, he pieced together a bit of evidence here and a clue there with but little success for eight years.

Last February his "break" came. Canada Freeman, another son of Farmer, allegedly was heard to boast, "I killed one man and I'm not afraid to kill another." Canada and his father were arrested. A hunt was started for Theodore and another man, Reuben Smith, friend of the Freemans.

Exhumation of Hoskins' body was decided upon to learn what type bullet killed him.

With Columbiana County Prosecutor John E. Bauknecht of East Palestine, Fultz went into southeastern Kentucky in a mule train astride mules, looking for the burial place. At night, the body was dug up and a steel bullet was taken from the body. Freeman's gun carried steel bullets, Fultz said.

About the same time, Theodore surrendered to police. Smith was arrested at his Kentucky home and the return to Wellsville began. Another thrilling experience awaited the police chief.

The little party had travelled only a short distance when according to police, Smith reined in his mule and said, "reckon I'll not go any further."

Fultz executed a ruse and Smith was rushed aboard a waiting train before his friends could aid him. The return was resumed and completed.

Infuriated because his father had accused him of slaying Hoskins, Theodore told him, "Pa, you know it wasn't me; you know you done it," according to Fultz. Then to Fultz he said, "I'd never have done it but for him accusing me." Canada then seconded his brother, police related.

Farmer Freeman was charged with first degree murder, Theodore with manslaughter and Smith and Canada for perjury. Farmer's trial is scheduled to start May 11 before Judge W. F. Jones in common pleas court in Lisbon.

It took eight years, but Chief Fultz thinks he "got his man."

STANDARD
RATING SCALE
for Electric Refrigeration

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration.)
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature of the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food.)
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frozen" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stopps" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run.)
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours.)
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set" things down for a moment while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER ♦ "Dad's Girl", "Joretta", Etc.

Copyright 1931, Central Press Association

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Vaughn is private secretary to Ronald K. Foster, an investment banker of Wall Street. She supports her mother, twin brothers and younger sister, Bonnie, to whom she has always given the best of everything until Bonnie wants the man she loves, debonaire Dick Baldwin. Bonnie is the spoiled beauty of the family and makes it known that she does not intend to share for a living all her days. Mary and Dick have had an understanding that as soon as Dick reaches a certain age in business they will make more definite plans. Martin Frazier is Foster's wealthiest client, who persists in trying to pay attention to Mary until her employer asks her to be nice to him on business principles. So she humors him by going out with him occasionally. Frazier discovers that his attraction for Mary is quite different from that of his first analysis. He decides to go south for a month and think things out, for which Mary is glad, as she does not like to go about with him. Bonnie lets Dick know about Mary's attentions from Frazier and gradually gains favor with Dick with her insidious reports about Mary. She attends a studio party in Greenwich Village with Mary and Dick, at the home of Willa and Ramon Duchon, and tries to vamp all the men of the party. During the evening, Dick accidentally reveals that he has been carrying a note of Bonnie's in his pocket for a month.

Mary fails to find the way back to the old camaraderie with Dick. When she goes to the office next morning, she finds a huge box of flowers from Frazier and a note saying that he has left an order for flowers for her twice a week. Bonnie goes to New York to look for a position, "accidentally" meets Dick and has lunch with him. Mary opens her second box of flowers from Frazier, just as Dick stops in to see her, misunderstands the situation and, augmented by Bonnie's information, he angrily tells Frazier that he cannot compete with her, and leaves her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 27

The soft closing of the door on Dick's departure shattered through Mary's taut body and she crumpled into a little tortured heap on the floor. The roses scattered about her, like colorful hopes and dreams tossed from her life in a hopeless disarray.

She stared into space without seeing—only a vast, bleak, empty future; she felt pain without realizing it; she heard the clinking of the translux and the clicking of the ticker in the adjoining rooms without being conscious of her surroundings.

After awhile, she aroused from her lethargy, vaguely wondering what had happened, remembered where she was and got to her feet. She seemed to have been gone somewhere for awhile—where, she just couldn't recall.

Mechanically, she picked up the roses and set them haphazardly in a vase in which there was no water. The telephone rang. The voice at the other end of the wire compelled her instant return to sanity. In a moment, Mary was her brisk, busy, normal self. A machine without a heart. Her heart had gone away with Dick.

Well, that was that! She would not let herself think of it again, she resolved fiercely. Life was easier, more simple without love, anyway. The alternate ecstasy and grief were too disturbing and exhausting.

Mary was just beginning to learn that "our sincerest beginning with some pain is fraught." That when a woman loves a man with the kind of love a woman gives, who loves completely and generously, she may count on having no hour of joy, two hours of pain. For, as the man she loves can afford her exquisite joy at the slightest effort to please, so can he inflict excruciating pain at the slightest intent or neglect. That women who demand much and give little, lose the heights, but in escape the depths, and can manage, men more simple without love, their calculating selfishness than all the love in the world can accomplish.

Mary was grateful for having to work late again that night. For, when she left the office, she would have to face the horrible monster that waited around the corner of her mind ready to spring out at her.

When she reached home, she found Bonnie dashing around in great excitement. Bonnie had had a finger exercise and a manicure in New York that day and her mother was still occupied with pressing and mending all her clothes at 10 o'clock, as if Bonnie were going to wear them all at once. That was Bonnie. When she got stirred up, she revolved at high speed, and carried everyone else along with her. When her spirits were low, she spilled gloom all over her world.

Mom looked at Mary, sharply. But her reason argued; if she had to fight with her own sister for Dick's love—did she want it? If Dick didn't want to recognize her love when she had already given it to him, did she want to force it upon him? Never!

As the days added to weeks, so time that Dick might soon tire of Bonnie and return to her. Would she forgive him and accept him, even yet? She thought she would—then?

"I'm all right, just tired," Mary tried to smile, but she had to turn away quickly and pretend to examine a blouse of Bonnie's that she picked up, to keep the tears from falling which sprang to her eyes. "I see you got the job, Bonnie."

"Did I?" Dick practically gave them to understand that he had operated switchboard ever since before they were invented—in fact, that I used to plug the board for Cleopatra when Anthony sailed in with his galleons and 'phoned her from the pier that he had landed and would be right up to the palace with a bag of jewels for her. Whoopee!

Mary wondered how much Bonnie knew about Dick and her. He had said that it was Bonnie who told him about her going out with Frazier. Probably some careless remark she had made about it. Then, his coming in and seeing her with the flowers had fanned the smoldering fire of his anger into flame. Oh, well, he had so little faith in her, better that the dream was shattered before it became too real. She held no resentment against Bonnie, even for her flirtatious attempts to attract Dick. If his love for her were not broad and deep enough to exempt him from suspicion and neglect of her, she didn't want it.

Mary dragged herself to bed and tried to eradicate from her aching brain all thoughts of Dick. But waves of misery swept over her and engulfed her. It was near dawn when she slept, to awake later with a frightened gasp at the appalling truth which faced her.

With a little prayer of thanks for work that demanded her strength and mind she went to the office. Life lapsed into a monotonous routine. It was somewhat like it had been before she ever met Dick. Only the zest and arid days stretched their lonely expanse before her.

After the first day, she began to hope and believe that Dick would repeat his rashness and soon come to her for forgiveness. She had it all laid out and waiting for him. Surely, he couldn't say the words he had said, look the way he had looked at her and do the things he had done—then let this little misunderstanding destroy it all! She ached for him with a continual, relentless ache.

For a week her heart beat with suffocating violence every time the telephone rang or the door opened. He would come to her—come day. Love would bring him, compel him. And then that hope left her. Bonnie began to stay in New York for the evenings, and Mary learned that she was with Dick. Bonnie said, the first evening she came in late, "Oh, I had a date with one of the fellows in the office."

"Is he—nice?" Mary asked, with instant concern for protecting her little sister. "Be careful, honey, whom you go with in New York. It isn't wise to accept invitations too quickly. When you've been there longer, you can learn more about them all. I hear and see things that are pretty good indicators of the people with whom you work."

"Oh, sure, I'm no baby, Mary," Bonnie retorted, bending down and brushing her bright golden hair over her eyes.

The next time she stayed away, Mary happened to look down into the street when she went over to the window before getting into bed. She saw a shadow and a glimpse of a white hand shivered through her body, weak and limp. The familiar Buick coupe was parked in the street below. In a flash, Mary saw it all, then. As a delirium, she left the window and crawled miserably to bed, where the cool sheets soothed her burning flesh. She lay there staring up at the ceiling where the light from the street cast moving shadows of tree branches that drew fantastic handwriting on the wall. There was no longer a mystery to decipher, though. It was all too plain in Mary's mind. Her romance was dead, and her mind gyrated with a ceaseless, merciless threnody of grief.

Finally, when Bonnie came in, Mary pretended to be asleep. It cost her no little effort. One part of her wanted to rise up and shout out her accusations to Bonnie—to denounce her deception and cruelty. No wonder Bonnie suddenly wanted to get work in New York, that she accidentally met Dick that day for lunch and that he managed to find her a place to work in his office!

But her reason argued; if she had to fight with her own sister for Dick's love—did she want it? If Dick didn't want to recognize her love when she had already given it to him, did she want to force it upon him? Never!

As the days added to weeks, so time that Dick might soon tire of Bonnie and return to her. Would she forgive him and accept him, even yet? She thought she would—then?

JUDGE DECLINES TO ENJOIN SELECTION OF BUILDING SITE

ever to select the site. That selection under the statute must be made by the board itself, and the fact the board did not follow the recommendation of the committee would not be sufficient grounds for the court to interfere.

The fact the board did not comply with the request of the 683 petitioners who favored the Zimmerman site would not show either a gross abuse of discretion or fraud, Judge Gowdy declared. He also commented as follows on the allegation the site selected was not as near the center of population as the site requested in the petition submitted to the board:

"According to facts given in the petition, there was a difference of 5 per cent more than would be the actual center of population—that is, 55 per cent live near the Zimmerman site. It naturally follows that if they have to be hauled farther—a distance of between a half and three-fourths of a mile to the Haines site, then the other 45 per cent would also, have to be hauled farther to the Zimmerman site, and the proportionate difference is so slight that the location has but little effect on

The Theater

Believe it or not, Ronald Colman's new leading woman is due to surprise you. She is Fay Wray, according to announcement of Samuel Goldwyn, who has arranged to borrow her from Paramount to play in "The Unholy Garden."

The story was written for Colman by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, who were collaborators on the play, "The Front Page." Rehearsals start immediately and George Fitzmaurice will direct.

Everyone expected Joan Bennett to get this lead. Colman had asked for her and Joan was eager to play the part. As she is under contract to divide her time between United Artists and Fox there seemed small chance of a slip-up. Nevertheless, Fay Wray gets the part.

Mary Pickford, now in New York, will sail May 12 to meet her husband, Doug Fairbanks, in London. She denied emphatically the recent rumors of divorce.

Mary repeated in New York her decision to scrap every film she ever made and announced she is going to put such instructions in her will.

"Twenty years from now the pictures we made today and yesterday will be laughable," she said. "The mechanical and technical end of moving pictures will be so improved that today's productions will be ridiculous."

"I want to be remembered in memory and not in fact. I think that all movie actors and actresses, with the possible exception of Charlie Chaplin, should burn up all their films."

She admitted she is contemplating retirement. "And when I do there are a thousand things I will do," she said. "There is Doug's ranch, the study of music, interior decorating and languages—and on there are some secret things I have always wanted to do." She would not divulge the secret.

Despite all denials, delegates at the Paramount convention were given to understand that Ruth Chatterton will not go to Warner's. Her contract there is said to have been torn up. . . . A modernistic dressing room suite is being prepared for Marlene Dietrich at Paramount. She is bringing her baby girl, Maria, with her on this trip but her husband, Rudi Seiber, remains in Germany.

Twenty Years '11-Ago-'31

A new publication edited by Jesse Taylor, Jamestown, and known as "Better Roads," has made its initial appearance.

Twenty-seven years ago today Jamestown was almost destroyed by a cyclone. The pacing colt, Wayne Elder, 2:23 1/4, has been sold by John Galvin, editor of the Jamestown Horse Journal, to John Porter, of Saskatoon, Sask., Canada.

Members of the high school basketball team are rejoicing over the handsome sweaters given them by the athletic association.

PUNCHING BAG AIDS GOVERNOR WHITE IN KEEPING IN SHAPE

COLUMBUS, O., April 28.—A punching bag is helping Governor George White keep in trim in these days of hard work when he is constantly swamped under routine duties and repeatedly speaking or shaking hands at luncheons, banquets and conventions.

Fifteen minutes of pummeling the punching bag every evening and frequent pedestrian travels from the executive mansion to the statehouse have helped him keep in good humor and good health throughout the strenuous days during and after the meeting of the general assembly here.

Friends only recently learned about the punching bag. The governor had it installed at the executive mansion and said little about it until an associate warned him that he looked a little fatigued and ought to try to get some exercise.

"Look at that waistline. No surplus there," he declared, then announcing how he tries to keep in shape.

Thirty-five years ago, he said, when he played football, he weighed 163. Now, he says, his weight never exceeds 165 and frequently is as low as 160.

That, in his opinion, "is not so bad."

Governor White probably is the best known, and possibly the most consistent luncheon, dinner and banquet guest in the state. He has attended three or four dozen such meetings since he became governor and has spoken at more than a score of conventions.

DENIES INSULT

Dantes Bellegarde, above, new minister from Haiti, has informed newspaper men that he was misquoted in an article in which he was quoted as saying that a fort, for the capture of which Major General Smedley D. Butler was awarded the congressional medal of honor, did not exist. The minister blames the translation. General Butler protested.

MAN THE BOATS

BOSTON.—Like the well known joke about the "mailman who takes a hike on his vacation," members of Uncle Sam's navy, while on shore leave in Boston, were among the first to "try" the foot-propelled Swanboats on Frog Pond in the Public Gardens. Children with their governesses, sailors, salesmen and others were among those who enjoyed the slow ride around the pond on the opening day.
